Through the use of worksheets, power point presentations and modeling, discussions and networking opportunities, you will learn many benefits for you and your child to ease power struggles and challenging behaviors, promote social emotional development and understand problem behavior. The underlying philosophy of this training is to be proactive, rather than reactive, with children and their behaviors. Class starts July 9, 2019. Register today!

THE POWER OF THE FATHER/CHILD BOND

Fathers, like mothers, are pillars in the development of a child's emotional well-being. Children look to their fathers to provide a feeling of security, both physical and emotional. Children want to make their fathers proud, and an involved father promotes inner growth and strength. Studies have shown that when fathers are affectionate and supportive, it greatly affects a child's cognitive and social development. It also instills an overall sense of well-being and self-confidence.

Fathers not only influence who we are inside, but how we have relationships with people as we grow. The way a father treats his child will influence what he or she looks for in other people. The patterns a father sets in the relationships with his children will dictate how his children relate with other people.

Research indicates that fathers are as important as mothers in their respective roles as caregivers, protectors, financial supporters, and most importantly, models for social and emotional behaviors.
